urrers Will Not Be Argued Before Next Tuesday and the Four Spalding Clubs Will Take an Active Part - Imments Completed at Aqueduet

Another postponement in the injunction occeedings restraining A. G. Spalding from suming the duties of President of the National League was decided upon yester-day, the Freedman faction this time being day, the Freedman laction this this responsible. The argument on the demur-rers filed by the defendents was to have taken place before Justice Truax in Part III. of the Supreme Court to-day, but at the request of De Lancey Nicoll, attorney for the Freedman faction, who has a case before the Court of Appeals, a postponement until next Tuesday was agreed upon by consent of Col. John I. Rogers of Philadelphia.

As matters now stand, A. G. Spalding is not the only person involved in the defence of the suit. The Brooklyn, Chicago, Pitts-burg and Philadelphia clubs, who since the original service of papers upon Spalding have been made parties to the injunction suit, have decided to fight the matter to the biffer end. At a series of conferences, each biffer end. At a series of conferences, each of these clubs has concluded to stand by spalding at any cost, and as a result all of them will be represented by legal talent.

A. W. Riddle will make argument for Spalding. Col. Rogers will act as counsel for both Philadelphia and Chicago clubs, J. A. interests of the Pittsburg club, and John M. Ward will represent the Brooklyn club.

In other words there are five defendants and each has a demurrer to argue. All of these demurrers set forth that the Supreme Court of New York county has no jurisdiction, as the four Spalding clubs are foreign corporations; that the plaintiffs, the New York, Boston, Cinicinnati and St. Louis clubs, have no legal capacity to sue; that the plaintiffs have not stated a cause for action, and that they are not entitled to relief. Col. Rogers, who was chairman of the League meeting at which Spalding was elected President by a 4 to 6 vote, after the Freedman faction had olted, is the principal owner of the Philaterested. He will conduct the defence when it comes to arguing the merits of Spalding's terested. He will conduct the defence when it comes to arguing the merits of Spalding's election. Col. Rogers was in town yesterday ready to go on in court to-day, but when Mr. Nicoli made his request for time the Colonel readily consented. In speaking of the case. Col. Rogers said last night:

"When the case comes up next Tuesday, we will argue the demurrers and Messrs, Kiddle, Ward. Northrup and myself will have many facts to set forth. If the demurrers are sustained the case will be thrown out of court and Spalding will immediately assume the duties of President. If, on the other hand, there should be a decision from the bench, dismissing the demurrers, we will have twenty days in which to file an answer to the injunction suit. In that event the arguments on the merits of the case could not be heard sooner than the April term and even then there might be a postponement at the request of either side. As far as we are concerned, however, we are ready to go on without further delay, and I wish to say that we have no fear as to the gesult. Mr. Spalding is in office. He is a de facto President and was legally elected. We believe that we can show conclusive proof and precedent to bear out our contention. It will be a fight to a finish.

The most important fact relating to the controversy seems to be the action of the four Spalding clubs in talking a hand in the legal proceedings. When Spalding was served with papers he stood alone, defended by his attorney, Mr. Kiddle. But with the entrance of counsel for the four Spalding clubs into the case, it is apparent that no metter how long the court proceedings may be atrung out, there will be a breach between the rival factions in the League.

James A. Hart, President of the Chicago National League Club, has gone to California to confer with A. G. Spalding on the baseball altuation. What the result of Hart's visit to his chief will be is of interest. Hart has been in close touch with Ban Johnson and the American League and may learn some tidings that may be the means of clearing up the existing muddle.

Influence is being brought to bear at Albany to secure the passage of Assemblyman John T. Dooling's bill legalizing boxing by ameteurs under the jurisdiction of the A. A. U. It was said yesterday that certain Tammany politicians have interested themselved and that with the influence of several leading Republicans the bill stands a good chance of going through both branches of the Legislature. Secretary J. E. Sullivan of the A. A. U. received word from Albany yesterday that Mr. Dooling has been greatly shoouraged and feels that the new law will be enacted within the next two weeks. It is said that if Senator M. E. Lewis, who was instrumental in having the Horton law repealed, can be induced to lend his support to the measaure it will go through without instrumental in having the Horton law repeated, can be induced to lend his support to the measure it will go through without friction. Some legislators are reported as being in favor of stipulating in the bill that the prizes must be confined to medals of stated value, so that it will be impossible for clubs to offer pianos, diamonds and other trophies which can easily be converted into cash. If the bill becomes a law it is said that the A. A. U. will soon have control over many new clubs while probably several hundred boxers will apply for registration. As contests are held each boxer will be placed on the records. Then after a certain lapse of time, the officials of the A. A. U. will call upon all winning boxers to produce their medals. If a boxer cannot comply with the request, he will be forthwith suspended. It is also the intention of the A. A. U. officials to promptly exnel a club that is convicted of paying money to boxers and to declare boxers who accept pay out of the amateur ranks forever. In other words the A. A. U. is determined to keep the sport clean and to uphold the law in every respect.

Superintendent Joseph Reilly of the Queens County Jockey Club said yesterday that there has never been so great a demand for stable reom at the Aqueduct track, and that in order to accommodate the horsemen, several new stables will be constructed there before the wpring meeting opens on April is. It is believed that one of the features of the Aqueduct meeting will be the "rying out of numerous two-year-olds, as a moirity of the stables have entered youngst. Word comes from England that Forhall Keene's four-year-old colt. Olympian is working remarkably well and may be a starter in the Lincolnshire. Mr Keene, who is at Newmarket, has been watching Olympian at work under the watchful eyes of Felix Leach, the stable's regular trainer, and is said to have expressed the belief that the noted son of Domino has a great year before him.

"Pittsburg Phil." the well-known plunger, has arrived in town, after spending a greater part of the winter at New Orleans and Hot Springs. He says that there is every prospect for a great year in racing. Shaw, who rode for "Pittsburg" last year, has been wintering in the West, but will come on here shortly to begin work with the Keene horses.

The severe storm of yesterday acted as a setback for the trainers who have been gradually getting their horses ready for the spring meeting at Bennings. The local tracks would have been fit for galloping in a few days had it not been for the snow, for they had dried out so well that the various superintendents were praying for a couple of good days. As it is, it will be at least a week or ten days before there can be any chance of working horses on the different tracks, while exercise on the Coney Island Boulevard is out of the cuestion for the balance of the week at least. Meanwhile a number of trainers are thinking of making an earlier start than usual for Washington.

The visiting clubs will get half of every twenty-five-cent bleacher admission and 25 cents for all higher priced seats, with the usual sinking fund reserve held out by the League. Philadelphia is exempt from the increase in prices and will charge as formerly.

Detroit and Baltimore joined hands in fighting the increase and the debate waxed warm, but finally the opposition was quieted. The increase in price is taken as the first step toward further expansion by the American League. If there are any cities not capable of keeping up their end, then in 1908 there will be a shake-up. It is believed that a fight on Freedman, unless he sells out, will be waged a year from this season, while Cincinnati will also be attacked by the vigorous young League.

"We did not even discuss New York today," said President Johnson, "and nothing along that line will be done at this meeting. The schedule has been completed and the cities are selected. What the future may bring forth is a different matter, but for the present there will be no New York and no tencelub league, anyway. New York can so and see Freedman's club play a little longer. The League added 21,500 to Johnson's salary in recognition of his work. It was decided to cut all teams down to fourteer, men on the ist of June. Cleveland is to play. The Premier stakes for two-year-olds was the feature of the racing this afternoon.

Bill Nixon was an odds-on favorite and was heavily backed. After fifteen minutes' delay at the post the field was sent away to a perfect start, with Bill Nixon in front. The Fizer colt was never headed. Bristol won the steeplechase, but she was disqualified and Falella got the purse, while second and third money went to Harve B. and King Elikwood. After the race Jockey Conner, who rode Bristol, went into the stand and attempted an explanation of Bristol's running out, but Judge Rees waved him away and immediately informed Secretary Clark that Conner was ruled off for life and to take up his badge.

Lady Brockaway, under a good ride by Odom, took the opening event. Anna Handspring reared into the fence, dislocated her shoulder and was withdrawn. Tom Kingsley, the extreme outsider in the second race, downed a speedy lot, including Death and Felix Bard. The favorite had to do his best to win from Nitrate in the fifth. AT THE OPERA.

"La Fille du Regiment" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" Repeated.

At the Metropolitan Opera House last night a double bill was given. The programme was so well contrasted that there was variety enough to rouse much applause at this the tail end of the season. Donizetti's dainty opera-or opera comique-"La Fille du Regiment," all chirping melody, was placed in high relief by the brutality of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." Enthusiastic admirers of both works were in the house and made their choice known The chipper rôle of Marie has been a factor in the careers of Jenny Lind, Sontag, Patti and Albani, but it is doubtful whether Patti and Albani, but it is doubtful whether any one of them lent it such easy grace as does Mme. Sembrich. Though in comparison with her other roles Marie seems trifling, yet this great artist spends the same amount of care in phrasing and simply lavishes her beautiful voice on it. She capped the performance by singing the "Parla" waltz and at its conclusion an enthusiastic audience rose at her in applause. Gilibert as Sulpice is a splendid figure, and last night he rolled his rs as resonantly and last night he rolled his rs as resonantly as Sembrich did her drum. Van Cauteren Salignac, Dufriche and Viviani made up the rest of the cast, and Flon conducted. "Cavalleria Rusticana" brought up the rear of the evening. Calvé sang Santuzza and De Marchi was Turiddu. Scotti, Bridewell and Bauermeister filled their usual parts and again Flon conducted. The audience was large.

FIRST DAY OF SPORTSMEN'S SHOW Indians and Trappers and Guides, Birds and Animals to Be Seen.

The eighth annual exhibition of the Sports men's Association opened at Madison Square Garden yesterday morning. The storm did not make the opening a very brilliant one, and all the morning the attendance was rather slim. It was dark, too, and the electric lights, instead of helping things, only seemed to make everything more dismal. In the afternoon, however, when the storm abated somewhat, there was a fair attendance, and in the evening the Garden was well filled. The arrangement of the show this year is very pretty. At the Fourth avenue end a set piece represents a scene in the Adiron-dacks. A stream runs down a mountain set piece represents a scene in the Adron-dacks. A stream runs down a mountain and tumbling over some rocks flows into the lake in the centre of the Garden. In this lake are islands, and on these islands are the camps of guides, trappers and Indians as well as animals and birds. The Indians and guides paddle their cances on the lake, and beginning this afternoon there will be races every day. The fly casting competitions will also begin to-day, and a good programme has been arranged which will bring together some of the best casters in the country.

In the southeast corner of the Garden is an aquarium. This is in fine working order and attracted considerable attention yesteraday. The trade exhibits this year have been relegated to the sides of the Garden and to the balcony. In the concert hall is a large Indian exhibit. Gaudy Navajo blankets are hung over the walls and suspended from the celling and make a very showy display Milliceeti Indians from Old Town, Me., and Ojibways from Canada also have wares on exhibition.

Many of the exhibits, including some moose and other animals, have not yet reached the Garden. They are stalled on the railroads, but have been heard from and probably will be here to-day. The revolver contests will begin to-day, and the rifle shooting will start to-morrow.
